Day 1, Rosia Montana: on May 14th, we invited people to watch documentary movies about gold mining

Representative of the County Council delivered an opening speech

The host,
Mr. Marius Todor

Same day, Prague: the official opening of the European Minerals Day

Day 2: May 15th was dedicated to environment and biodiversity - key elements of Rosia Montana mining project
Specialists of RMGC and independent experts spoke in front of students and local community

Day 2, in the afternoon: our guests enjoyed the visit to the open pits in Rosia Montana

Visit to the "Cetate" open pit

Word of organisers

Ion Popescu, head of CSN Meridian: "The presence of local authorities, students and experts, and of the natives living in the area is a positive signal that mining is still a matter of interest in Romania, under the condition to respect the European norms in the area, in terms of environment and biodiversity protection"

Dragos Tanase, managing director of RMGC: "One of the principles the mining project proposed by RMGC is based on is to ensure sustainable development of Roşia Montana and a clean environment, which would reset the biodiversity in a region affected by the past ecological disaster. It is our duty to act with responsibility to allow the next generations to enjoy clean forests and waters, instead of the old waste rock dumps and acid waters"

The Minerals Day in Europe

Minerals are all around us!

More than 160 sites in 22 European countries celebrated the event

" The 2009 European Minerals Day is an excellent way to inform, educate and enthuse European citizens about the importance of the minerals sector in providing raw materials that are essential for so many everyday products. The sector is vital for Europe's competitiveness and its success is built on sound principles of sustainability and innovation"
European Commissioner Günter Verheugen
